Carolina Romeo, 16, a star athlete at the University of Calgary and an award-winning student at the Schulich School of Engineering has been named one of Canada's Top 20 Under 20 by Youth in Motion, a non-profit organization that recognizes leading Canadians under the age of 20.

Always in motion

Calgary teen scores leadership honour

Carolina Romeo insists she is just your typical teenager.

But her friends, family and pretty much the rest of the country think she's uniquely deserving of the Canada's Top 20 Under 20 honours she received from Youth in Motion in Toronto this month.

At just 16, Romeo is already going into her second year of engineering at the University of Calgary, on the school's women's field hockey team and will be joining her teammates in Prague, Czech Republic for the Junior Ringette Championships in August.

Perhaps even more astounding is her contribution to the community by volunteering to coach young girls like herself, while juggling a workload of sports and schoolwork.

"I really want to be able to coach another team of girls this year, it's definitely something I enjoy quite a bit," she said. "I like to get involved in things I enjoy and then I just work really hard at them."

This is, perhaps, why non-profit organization Youth in Motion recognized Romeo for her achievements. "I was just so happy to meet the other 19 nominees and I was very inspired by them. Even though we have different interests, we all share the same drive," Romeo said.

Romeo's field hockey coach said she had to urge the young athlete to make a submission because Romeo "didn't think she was qualified."

"She is an exceptional young lady and I am not surprised. I think there is so much to her that makes her special," Jenn Swagar said.

Romeo's mom Martha agrees. "I am just so proud of her, but I think she is just doing what makes her happy."

Alberta officials urge calm as H1N1 flu reaches Phase 6

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Despite the World Health Organization (WHO) raising the H1N1 pandemic alert level to Phase 6, Alberta officials said the risk to the general public still remains low.

Alberta's chief medical officer, Dr. Andre Coriveau, said officials are not surprised the WHO indicated a global pandemic is underway with the spreading of the virus.

"The Phase 6 designation is not indicative of how severe this disease is. It is a measure of where and how widespread the new virus has gone around the world," he added.

Alberta Health and Wellness spokesperson Howard May said Albertans don't need to overreact to the new designation.

"For Alberta, nothing has changed today. The new level has more to do with statistics than severity," May said.

Alberta Liberal Leader David Swann called on the Alberta government to resolve issues he feels are hampering the province's ability to respond to the flu. "Ed Stelmach and Ron Liepert continue to experiment with our health-care system at a time when we can least afford to make mistakes. I urge them both to prepare our health-care system for the flu's return."

Green light for new station

Up to 10,000 people a day expected to use northwest terminal

JOEL MESSNER
for Metro Calgary

Calgary will be getting a new addition on Saturday that should help commuters and take more cars off of northwest roads, says Calgary Transit.

Crowfoot Station, the northwesternmost stop on the C-Train line, will be unveiled to the public for the first time Saturday.

"We are very anxious as are our customers in the northwest to open Crowfoot Station for service on Monday," said Ron Collins of Calgary Transit. "We expect 8,000 to 10,000 people to use the new station every weekday."

Residents living around the LRT line's latest addition have mixed feelings about the station.

"I think the new station will definitely help my commute just because I'm taking the bus now, and the buses can be very slow," said Noel Chow, who travels each day to the northwest from the southwest community of Bridlewood. Chris Blair, who lives in nearby Scenic Acres, said his kids are stoked about the new C-Train station, but he is concerned about the collateral effect to the surrounding community.

"We're worried about the crime and vandalism it will bring to the area, as well as the parking problems."

Collins said the new station will help all commuters navigate around Calgary.

"This will mean fewer cars on the street and more people using public transit," said Collins.

The grand-opening event of the Crowfoot Station will take place at the Park and Ride on Saturday, at Crow-child Trail and Nosehill Drive, and will run from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Community members are asked to bring a non-perishable food item to the event.

Mayoral hopeful moves past staff 'fiasco'

POLITICS A Calgary mayoral candidate is forging ahead with his campaign despite what he called a "fiasco" this week at the start of his bid.

George Dadamo said he was forced to let go of his assistant Joshua Bredo just hours after he announced his mayoral bid when controversy surrounding his aide's past came to light. Bredo is alleged to have used several aliases over the past year and been involved in other alleged incidents.

"I usually have good intuition when I am face-to-face with people, but I guess this time I was wrong," Dadamo said of the decision to hire Bredo. "It was an error on my part, but we want to recuperate and move on."

"I just want to send a strong message we are not going to stop in our bid," he added.

Park, ride fees lead to rise in tickets: Official

Daniel Fortune's truck was towed Thursday because he parked on private property.

Fortune, who has received many tickets, has been finding alternate places to park since the implementation of the park-and-ride fee at city transit lots because he doesn't want to pay.

"Sometimes I don't have change. I'll take the ticket because I can pay it at a later date."

Fortune isn't the only one. Since the beginning of 2009, the Calgary Parking Authority has issued 26,494 parking tickets for illegally parking on private property and is on pace to reach approximately 53,000 tickets.

If this trend continues, Calgary Parking Authority general manager Dale Fraser said that it would be a 18 per cent jump from 44,807 tickets in 2008.

"(The rise) is largely due to parkers trying to avoid the new fare zones including transit," said Fraser.

Fraser said property owners are more aware of illegal parking. He said the parking authority has added patrols since the fees were implemented and a third photo-enforcement vehicle.

Mexican army taking on corrupt police

DRUG WAR Soldiers are cracking down on corrupt police in Mexico's richest city, exposing the reach of drug traffickers who have tarnished its reputation for stability and order.

Heavily armed troops have rounded up more than 80 police in and around the city of Monterrey this month after finding lists of officers apparently in the pay of the Gulf cartel. Security raids came to a head this week when masked federal police faced off in the streets at gun point with city cops alleged to work for the drug gangs.

Frightened motorists fled their cars for fear of a shootout that was narrowly avoided. The breakdown in law and order is damaging the image of one of Latin America's top business cities. Drug killings have flared in the city since 2006 in a fight between the Gulf cartel and gangs from the Pacific state of Sinaloa for smuggling routes into the United States.

The drug war killed more than 6,000 people across Mexico in 2008 and 2,500 people so far this year. REUTERS

News in brief

HUNT CIA director Leon Panetta said Thursday the U.S. intelligence agency believes al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden is hiding in Pakistan and hopes joint operations with Pakistani forces will find him. Asked whether he was sure that bin Laden was in Pakistan, Panetta told reporters: "The last information we had, that's still the case." There are "a number of people" on the ground in Pakistan providing intelligence on al-Qaida targets to the United States, he said. The intelligence agency also is focusing on countries where al-Qaida might find safe haven, like Somalia and Yemen, Panetta said.

NUCLEAR Iran and North Korea are working together to develop ballistic missiles and have made significant progress, the head of the Pentagon's Missile Defense Agency said Thursday. "It really is an international effort going on out there to develop ballistic missile capability between these countries," U.S. Army Lt.-Gen. Patrick O'Reilly said.

SCIENCE A new, superheavy chemical element numbered 112 will soon be officially included in the periodic table, German researchers said. A team first produced 112 in 1996 by firing charged zinc atoms through a 120-metre-long particle accelerator to hit a lead target. REUTERS

Pandemic declared

H1N1 becomes first pandemic of 21st century

Flu Outbreak

The World Health Organization declared an influenza pandemic Thursday and advised governments to prepare for a long-term battle against an unstoppable new flu virus.

The United Nations agency raised its pandemic flu alert to Phase 6 on a six-point scale, indicating the first influenza pandemic since 1968 is underway.

"With today's announcement, WHO moves from an emergency to a longer-term response. Based on past experience, this pandemic will be with us for some months, if not years, to come," WHO director-general Dr. Margaret Chan said in a letter to staff.

People aged 30-50, pregnant women or people suffering from chronic conditions such as asthma, diabetes or obesity are at highest risk, Chan told a news conference.

Countries from Australia to Chile and the United States are reporting the new influenza A (H1N1), also known as swine flu, is "crowding out" seasonal flu, becoming the predominant influenza strain, she said.

For now the virus was "pretty stable," but Chan warned that it could still change into a more deadly form, perhaps mixing with the H5N1 bird flu virus circulating widely in poultry.

A boy wears a mask as he leaves the Japanese International School in Duesseldorf, Germany, Thursday. German authorities have confirmed 30 cases of the new flu strain at the school.

"So it is incumbent on WHO and all members to stay vigilant and alert for the next year or two or even beyond," she said. There is also a risk the swine flu could mix with its seasonal H1N1 cousin, which is resistant to antiviral flu drug Tamiflu, made by Roche AG and Gilead Sciences Inc., Dr. Anne Schuchat of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention told a separate briefing.

Canadian health officials said they were concerned about reports of more severe symptoms in some aboriginal communities, but said it was too soon to say for sure.

"To make conclusions based on a couple of communities that this is somehow a disease that is worse in a particular ethnic group. It's much too early to make any of those kinds of conclusions or presumptions," said Dr. David Butler-Jones, Canada's chief public health officer. REUTERS

No vaccine yet

• Different authorities need to work together to speed registration of a safe H1N1 vaccine, which will not be available before September, WHO director-general Margaret Chan said Thursday. Drugmakers have obtained the influenza A (H1N1) seed virus in the past two weeks, enabling them to begin the production process by growing the virus in eggs.

Russian think tank says 'nyet' to democracy

Report pours cold water on Medvedev's declaration to reform country's political system

Russia does not need to move towards greater democracy, a report says.

The financial crisis requires strong leadership, a think-tank close to the ruling party United Russia stresses in the report.

The report for Prime Minister Vladimir Putin's party appears to pour cold water on President Dmitry Medvedev's declared intentions of cautiously reforming Russia's tightly controlled political system.

"It would be more honest and realistic to say that the democratisation of Russia's political system in the near future cannot be a priority ... The priority for now is good governance," the Public Projects Institute, headed by parliamentarian Vladimir Pligin, said in the report.

Its conclusions appeared to chime with those of Putin, Russia's president from 2000 to 2008 and now the dominant partner in a dual leadership with his chosen successor Medvedev.

Business daily Vedomosti earlier published unusually frank remarks about Russia's political system from what it said was an early draft of the report. These were missing from the final version.

"Regional leaders...are appointed via arrangements strongly reminiscent of regional committee secretary nominations in the Soviet era," the newspaper cited the report as saying.

It said Russia's tightly controlled media resembled that of the Soviet media during the so-called "period of stagnation" prior to Mikhail Gorbachev's "perestroika" reforms in the 1980s.

Angry wife blasts media

BERLUSCONI The wife of Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi said Thursday her reputation has been "muddled" by the media.

She spoke out after her public demand for a divorce on grounds of infidelity plunged her husband into a major scandal.

Veronica Berlusconi unleashed a storm of public criticism over her billionaire husband's private life last month.

She accused him of "frequenting minors," after he was photographed at the 18th birthday party of an aspiring model in Naples.

Some media, including outlets controlled by 72-year-old Berlusconi's Mediaset group, responded with stories about the private life of Veronica, a former actress and his second wife.

"In these weeks I have watched in silence, without responding in the media, the brutal muddying of my person, my dignity and my marital history," Veronica said in a letter to a newspaper.

Buy America: Blatant protectionism ats, it appears, can be herded if the stakes are high enough. Our provincial premiers, in an extraordinary display of unanimity, now say they support the Harper government's desire to enshrine state/provincial and local procurement practices under the North American Free Trade Agreement.

By expanding NAFTA this way, Canada would gain an exemption from the Obama administration's Buy America rules.

Exemptions are already held by several countries — Australia, Britain and Mexico among them. They, unlike Canada, had the foresight to negotiate free trade in sub-national procurement contracts with the U.S.

Buy America is blatant protectionism, the kind of appealing, but self-defeating economic strategy governments use in recessions when it's politically necessary to appear to protect domestic jobs. It's also the kind of measure that provokes reprisals.

Ottawa has a good case for an exemption. The Canadian and U.S. economies are highly integrated. A part made in Canada might go into a U.S.-built component, which is then assembled into a finished Canadian product for shipment back to the U.S. Think of it as a supra-national supply chain.

By one estimate, about 70 per cent of Canada/U.S. trade is this sort of industrial back and forth, which means that penalizing one side automatically disadvantages the other.

Canadian officials would like Congress to write an exemption clause into the Buy America legislation or have U.S. President Barack Obama issue an executive order doing the same. Both are remote possibilities, meaning the likeliest course is re-opening NAFTA.

This has its own hazards. In addition to swapping an exemption for access to Canadian procurement business, the U.S. might have other items on its shopping list. A new NAFTA will take time, and may not take effect until U.S. stimulus funds are long gone.

It's great Canada is finally on the case, but we should have taken care of this business long ago.

Author finds humour in Alberta's tarsands

UrbanCompass

Janice Paskey

metronews.ca/paskey

Andrew Nikiforuk ponders how to bring humour to the tarsands.

He just won the City of Calgary's W.O. Mitchell Book Prize for Tar Sands: Dirty Oil and the Future of a Continent.

"W.O. Mitchell set a standard for examining life critically, but with a sense of humour," says Nikiforuk.

You get the feeling his humour might be awfully satirical. Tar Sands has landed him on the international speaker's circuit, but he is persona non grata in the oilpatch here in Calgary.

Even the Alberta Book Awards didn't shortlist Tar Sands.

An intellectual property lawyer I talked to argued vigorously that Nikiforuk was biased, not giving credit to scientific efforts to develop cleaner oilsand technologies.

Indeed, Nikiforuk argues that Alberta's goopy black gold in and around Fort McMurray needs to be called the tarsands, not the oilsands, as there's nothing oily about them, until a lot of water, steam, energy is applied to extract bitumen from the muck.

Tar Sands argues that Alberta's oilfields have changed Canada: The feds suck out 50 per cent of oilsands revenue, now a substantial part of national GDP.

Calgary is the epicentre of the boom. In terms of revenues, the feds take half, the province takes 39 per cent, and the Alberta municipalities share 14 per cent (while out-of-province municipalities take the balance).

You can certainly see why our mayor is constantly lobbying the province to bring more money back to our city.

As Nikiforuk points out, the United States oil industry is having a heyday, using the tarsands environmental problems as reasons to lobby Obama to block our oil. The prescription in Tar Sands is slow development, figure out water and environmental issues, and apply higher royalties to invest in an energy future after oil.

Your job and mine is tied in some way to oil. Like it or lump it, Tar Sands is worth the read.

Were W.O. Mitchell with us, you can imagine him finding an eloquent way to write that the forces of oilsands status quo shouldn't have the last laugh.

Carney talks recovery

Exit strategies urged for stimulus spending

Bank of Canada governor Mark Carney pledged Thursday to stay the course on monetary policy and said it was important for countries to have valid exit strategies from stimulus spending as well as flexible exchange rates.

He repeated past language that he expects to keep the bank's target interest rate at 0.25 per cent through mid-2010, that he retains the flexibility to use unconventional measures and that the recent sharp rise in the Canadian dollar could fully offset recent positive developments in the Canadian economy.

In the prepared text of a speech he was giving in Montreal, he said too much fiscal stimulus by countries could be self-defeating if it leads to higher interest rates or reduces spending by consumers worried about tax hikes.

"It is ... paramount that fiscal policy frameworks retain credibility. This requires both effective current initiatives and realistic exit strategies."

"It is therefore paramount that fiscal policy frameworks retain credibility. This requires both effective current initiatives and realistic exit strategies," he said.

Massive fiscal spending and tax cuts should make growth positive in the United States, Japan and China in the third quarter, but self-sustaining private demand in most major economies is not yet imminent, he said.

In remarks that appeared directed at least partly at China, Carney added countries must adopt coherent macroeconomic policies and allow "real exchange rates to adjust to achieve external balance over time ... Given the current, deeply synchronous global recession, the costs of free riding should be obvious to all."

Carney said the U.S. current account deficit this year would fall by almost two-thirds from its peak, and China's surplus would also fall.

Customers seek bargains at Tiffany

JEWELRY As the economic recession takes a firm hold on consumers, upscale jeweller Tiffany is seeing more customers trying to bargain for lower prices in its stores.

But the jeweller said it will not cut prices for wealthy consumers seeking to save money.

"Everyone feels compelled to ask the question," Tiffany chief executive Michael Kowalski said. "And yes, the questions are being asked more often and the answer is the same — the price is the price is the price."

Although Tiffany has seen sales fall 22 per cent in the past quarter, it has vowed to hold the line on prices. Many investors and analysts argue that discounting would tarnish the Tiffany brand in the long run.

Tiffany's stand is in contrast to some other upscale retailers, which discounted items during the 2008 holiday season to attract shoppers. REUTERS

Business in brief

FORECAST The global economy will contract in 2009 by more than initially thought, given rising unemployment and underutilization of capacity, World Bank president Robert Zoellick said Thursday. Zoellick said indications were that the world economy would shrink by close to three per cent.

PROFIT Lululemon Athletica, a retailer of trendy yoga and workout wear, reported lower quarterly earnings Thursday and said it expects profit to be flat in the current quarter because of the troubled economy. Earnings fell to $6.5 million US in the company's first quarter from $8.5 million a year earlier. REUTERS

Exxon may join pipeline project

Alaska officials said Thursday an announcement was imminent on a deal that would have energy giant Exxon Mobil Corp. team up with Calgary-based TransCanada Corp. to design and possibly build a long-sought Alaska natural gas pipeline.

An announcement by the companies and Gov. Sarah Palin was expected

History

Government and industry officials have been trying for three decades to make the Alaska natural gas pipeline a reality, but poor economics have precluded the project.

as early as Thursday morning, said state Senator Lesil McGuire, an Anchorage Republican who chairs the Senate Energy Committee and co-chairs the Senate Natural Resources Committee. However, details were not clear, she said.

"It could be Friday. It could be next week," McGuire said.

The project, expected to cost at least $30 billion US, would allow North Slope oil producers to sell natural gas that is currently stranded within the Arctic Alaska oil fields. The pipeline would run from Prudhoe Bay to an existing pipeline hub in Alberta, and would deliver 4 billion to 4.5 billion cubic feet a day.

RESULTS Commercial printer Transcontinental Inc. posted a quarterly loss Thursday as a goodwill writeoff and impairment and restructuring charges ate into results.

Transcontinental said it lost $144.3 million in the second quarter, ended April 30. That was down from a profit of $36.9 million a year earlier.

The latest results included impairment of intangible assets and a goodwill writeoff that totalled $169 million, the company said. Also, it booked restructuring costs and additional asset impairment of $27.5 million.

The company is carrying out a major restructuring of its operations that began in November and resulted in 1,500 slashed jobs.

Auto woes slash industrial capacity use

DATA Trouble in the auto industry helped slash Canada's industrial capacity use to a record low of 69.3 per cent in the first quarter from 74.9 per cent in the fourth quarter of last year, Statistics Canada said Thursday.

The manufacturing sector, which excludes industries such as mining and construction, fell even further, dropping a record 7.8 points to 65.9 per cent.

Capacity use in the transportation equipment manufacturing sector — three-fifths of which is auto industry — fell to 42.5 per cent from 58.3 per cent in the fourth quarter.

"Numerous plants reported extended closures and slowdowns in January in reaction to lower demand in Canada and the United States," Statistics Canada said.

Washington steps up efforts to oversee pay

The Obama administration stepped up efforts on Thursday to push for measures to tie executive pay at all publicly traded companies more closely to performance, but faced some skepticism from lawmakers.

On Wednesday, the Treasury Department said that seven companies receiving government bailout money will be subject to strict oversight on pay for their top executives and other highly paid employees. The Treasury also said it wants new laws to empower the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission to ensure that shareholders have more say in setting pay.

Both President Barack Obama and Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner have said that Wall Street compensation practices encouraged excessive risk-taking, sowing the seeds of the financial crisis that has driven the United States and many other countries around the globe into recession.

Lawmakers from both major parties expressed uneasiness at the prospect of what they considered growing interference by government in business affairs. They suggested that regulatory reform and a determination to let companies stand or fall on their own would be preferable to putting taxpayer money into struggling companies.

"Executive compensation limits to address systemic risk are the wrong remedy for what is probably a nonexistent problem," said Representative Jeb Hensarling, a Republican from Texas.

U.S. recovery to be weak, official says

FORECAST A healing process in financial markets seems to be underway and it is reasonable to expect some growth late this year and next in the United States, Paul Volcker, an economic adviser to the Obama administration, said on Thursday.

However, the prospects for a really strong recovery, typical of most recessions, seem unlikely, Volcker said. "A long slog, with continuing high levels of unemployment, seems to be in store," he said.

Showdown for Stanley

(Series tied 3-3)

Pittsburgh at Detroit

It is a once-in-a-lifetime chance, an evening of heroes and heartbreak that will end with one team lifting the trophy most hockey players, even the pros, will only ever see up close at the Hockey Hall of Fame.

When the Penguins and Red Wings clash at Detroit's Joe Louis Arena tonight, it will not only be a showdown for the Stanley Cup, a new Game 7 legend is bound to emerge.

Pittsburgh, however, already has one. It was just five years ago that Ruslan Fedotenko scored both goals in Tampa's 2-1 victory over Calgary in Game 7 of the final.

Now, he not only skates for the Penguins, usually on Evgeni Malkin's wing, he is prone to giving pre-game pep talks. Given his history, his teammates are bound to listen tonight. So what will the message be?

"It's not about who is

"It doesn't matter who scores, we've just got to get a W."

scoring. It's about the win. At this point, it doesn't matter who scores, we've just got to get a W and win the Cup."

The Penguins have no shortage of stars. Malkin and Sidney Crosby lead all playoff scorers. Defenceman Sergei Gonchar is one of the best power-play quarterbacks in the game. Hot and cold goaltender Marc-Andre Fleury could steal or give away a championship all on his own.

But there is an all-for-one attitude on the team that everyone, from the captain down, has bought into. It's a big reason why the Penguins are positioned to potentially sip from one of the world's most impressive champagne goblets.

"There might be a sense of responsibility," Crosby said of his own role tonight. "But, you know what, I think everyone feels a part of it. We all want to make sure we make the most of it."

The naked truth

Movie feature

for Metro Canada

With the amount of attention Ryan Reynolds is getting for his much-talked about nude scene in The Proposal, you'd think the Canadian actor would be getting annoyed with all the questions.

"No, I'm happy to talk about it," admitted Reynolds during a stop in Toronto to discuss his latest movie (in theatres next Friday). "It's definitely something that when people see the film, they take away and talk about it over and over again so I'm happy to bring it up."

For those uneducated about the film's said sequence, let's just say it involves Reynolds and co-star Sandra Bullock literally running headlong into each other fully undressed. As Reynolds says, "It's not a quick little flash or anything like that — you have to be perfectly comfortable taking your pants off around 40 or 50 crew members."

Lucky for Reynolds, his nine year acquaintance-ship with Bullock may have eased the awkwardness just as it aided in establishing chemistry between the stars.

After all, in The Proposal, Reynolds plays overworked assistant to Bullock's bothersome book editor — that is, until her Canadian visa expires and she forces him to marry her in order to avoid being deported.

If that sounds like a pushy premise for a romantic-comedy, it may be because it shouldn't be regarded as such.

"When we were making this, we didn't really feel like we were making a romantic-comedy," said Reynolds. "It's more of a comedy to us. We were just going for laughs first and the romance was just kind of in there."

For Reynolds — who has criticized that the two greatest moments in filmmaking are when you first get a job and the moment you finish a movie — The Proposal may have even altered his outlook.

"A movie like this kind of changed my whole perspective on what filmmaking to be just because it was so much fun to shoot."

Ryan Reynolds is not shy about dishing on his much-talked about nude scene with Sandra Bullock in The Proposal.

COMEDY Just when you thought Eddie Murphy's appeal as a dim-witted daddy had long expired, here comes Imagine That — a film that manages to capitalize on either a slight improvement on the actor's overbearing skill-set or a lowered expectation from moviegoers. Maybe a bit of both.

Imagine That is undeniably huge on heart and a sharper-than-expected script captures an earnestness without it feeling like a ten-pound bag of beets being dumped over your head.

Imagine That may be one of Murphy's better forays into the family genre.

John Travolta plays a murderous hijacker in The Taking of Pelham 1 2 3.

REVIEW The Taking of Pelham 1 2 3, an update on the 1974 Walter Matthau/Robert Shaw subway heist caper, is really just an excuse for director Tony Scott to try out his jittery camerawork and seizure-inducing editing on the New York City subway system.

At one point, a character remarks on how beautiful the city is. We have to take his word for it, since the camera never slows down long enough for us to make it out.

Luckily, Scott brought along his favourite leading actor, Denzel Washington (this is their fourth collaboration), whose performance as a schlub of an MTA dispatcher in over his head dealing with a murderous hijacker (John Travolta). Washington does a lot without much to work with, disappearing into a character painfully testing the limits of his abilities. The bad news for Washington's character is who he's sparing with: Travolta's radicalized white-collar criminal, subtly named Ryder.

Travolta has played some great over-the-top villains in the past. Unfortunately, his aggro shtick here hews closely to Battlefield Earth than Face/Off. Maybe it's the hastily drawn neck tattoos or the oddly vitriolic dislike of Italian-Americans, but he nearly devours the entire hijacked subway car with his scenery-chewing.

Surrounding Washington and Travolta's extended dialogue are some pretty ridiculous plot points, including a video-chat-happy girlfriend picking the worst possible time to harangue her hostage boyfriend via his Wi-Fi-enabled laptop hidden on the subway car floor.

Other details irk, like financial reporters freaking out over the pre-credit-crunch Dow dropping all the way down to 12,000.

Add in the assaulting use of Jay Z's 99 Problems over the opening credits and this remake feels frozen in time, which is odd for a modernization.

Little merit to Easy Virtue

Easy Virtue

Director: Stephan Elliott
Stars: Jessica Biel, Ben Barnes
Classification: STC
Rating: **

STEVE GOW
 for Metro Canada

REVIEW In fact, what could've been a scathing indictment on aristocratic hypocrisy ends up mostly toothless, gumming at the satire like an old man eating pudding without his dentures.

In the early 20th century comic-drama, Jessica Biel (The Illusionist) plays a free-spirited American racecar driver who marries naive John (Ben Barnes), an upper-crust Brit whose family is at odds with the new kin, especially John's snooty mom (Kristin Scott Thomas) who sets out to subvert the matrimony.

Naturally, this conflict would either logically give way to suspense (as Alfred Hitchcock attempted in a 1928 adaptation) or humour. Unfortunately for Easy Virtue, it does neither effectively, instead feeding us mostly gags that are heavy-handed and obvious — especially one overplayed sequence involving the family's beloved-but-doomed chihuahua.

The film's performances are satisfying enough, and while Easy Virtue's themes of recession in the mid-1920s may seem surprisingly poignant, a bewildering tone lacks the focus required to land a punch.

Things just get weirder by the time you hear Barnes crooning a jazzy version of Billy Ocean's When the Going Gets Tough. Because when that happens, the tough get going.

Fresh sounds for summer

Alexisonfire, Grizzly Bear among top new music picks

SoundCheck

For many parts of Canada, spring has been a bust: Long cool stretches punctuated by rain or even snow — in June! No wonder everyone is grumpy. Maybe what we need are some summer songs.

Alexisonfire: St. Catharines, Ont., noisniks have evolved their sound away from the more screamo approach that found them fans on their first couple of records. They're still extremely heavy, but melody plays more of a role. I've heard most of Old Crows/

Young Cardinals already — it's out on June 23 — and if it doesn't debut at No. 1 on the Canadian album charts, demand a recount.

Grizzly Bear: In six months, their Veckatimest album will no doubt appear on many a hipster "best-of" list. Chief songwriting bruin, Edward Droste — there is a member named Christopher Bear, by the way — grew up appreciating the more experimental sides of Brian Wilson. There's a lot of mutual appreciation going on with Radiohead, too. No wonder Thom and Co. had them open for parts of their 2008 tour. Think Elliott Smith or a less loopy Flaming Lips. Nice for those reflective moments around the campfire.

The Sounds: Perky Swedish pop-rock fronted by the extremely blond Maja Ivarsson. Since they formed in 1999, many a North American rock star (I'm looking at you, Dave Grohl!) have shown their love by sporting Sounds T-shirts. Their third album, Crossing the Rubicon, came out last week with the single No One Sleeps. When I'm Awake conjuring early '80s New Wave memories of Missing Persons and even Blondie. Spinnerette: Brody Dalle (or, as Queen of the Stone Age fans know her, Mrs. Josh Homme) finally has her post-Distillers project off the ground. We had a taste with the Ghetto Love EP just before Christmas which indicated that Brody was headed down a path similar to late-model Yeah Yeah Yeahs — which, is to say, a very good path indeed. Little known fact: Brody is a keen student of JFK conspiracy theories. White Rabbits: Didn't bands with two drummers go out of fashion with the Doobie Brothers? Someone evidently forgot to tell this Brooklyn-based six-piece, who have just released It's Frightening, their second full album. The lead-off track, the aptly titled Percussion Gun, could lead to demerit points on your license. Old school alt-rockers will be reminded of both Adam and the Ants and Bow Wow Wow.

Robert Pattinson
on his new-found fame

New Moon's rising star

TALIA SOGHOMONIAN
Metro World News

Robert Pattinson melted the hearts of many when Edward Cullen first appeared on screen in Twilight. The young actor is back in New Moon, but still admits he is shocked with the phenomenon Twilight has turned into. Pattinson sat down with Metro to talk about New Moon, his own success, and his character.

Q How is the filming going?

A It's great. To be honest, I am surprised at how relaxed it is. I was really nervous before we started because there's so much expectation now. But with this team, everything seems to work really well. Everyone knows each other. It's one of the most relaxed jobs I've ever worked on. It's really strange. It's going really well so far.

Q Last time we spoke, you told me that you still walked in the street without anyone recognizing you. I'm assuming that's changed now.

A I don't walk in the street anymore, and when I do, I'm in disguise. (laughs) It's actually a relief being back at work.

Q Were you surprised that Twilight became such a phenomenon?

A It never ever fails to shock me. Even here. Yesterday, there were 300 people outside the set. It's just crazy. Every day, every single person I meet knows someone who has a very strong attachment to the books. It's very difficult to put your head around. I can go through customs at any airport in the world — every customs agent is like, "Can I get an autograph for my daughter?" Every single time! It's crazy! I just hope it doesn't change the way I think and stuff. It hasn't so far.

Q Which is your favorite motion picture vampire of all time?

A I always liked the original Nosferatu. I watched 30 Days of Night recently. I thought it was really good. I really liked Danny Huston in it. But I wouldn't say that I was a vampire fan.

Q You must be offered a lot of roles now. How are you making your choices?

A I judge things purely on the script. I'm booked up for this year. I've been doing the most different things you can possibly imagine. Every part is so different. I can't say any of the parts I'm doing — they haven't been finalized yet. But I don't pick them in terms of genre; purely the script. If I like the script and I like the part, then that's all that matters.

Q Are there differences in your preparation to play Edward again?

A Loads of different things. I feel very familiar with the character. I'm a ghost, a figment of Bella's imagination. I'm not really playing Edward. I'm playing a kind of disrupted memory, which is really strange. I'm trying to play him as if Edward's constantly thinking that things are going to fall apart. It's this idyllic relationship on the top. I'm very, very close to the surface. He's so insecure about everything.

Q Are you going to be on the soundtrack?

A I don't think so this time. It's still early on, but there are so many people that might be on the soundtrack. The last one did so well, so loads of bands want to go on it. Bands that I would never ever have thought would be on a soundtrack I think are going to be on it this time.

Q Was there an actor whom you idolized when you were younger?

A When I was younger, I didn't know I was going to be an actor. When I started acting, it took me about three or four years to actually think, Yeah, I'm an actor now. (But) I was obsessed with Jean-Paul Belmondo and Jack Nicholson.

Examining Media Issues

InDepth

Foreign Journalists:

The sentencing of two American journalists — Laura Ling and Euna Lee — to 12 years in a North Korean labour camp helped place the spotlight on the dangers reporters face while trying to do their jobs. The committee to protect journalists announced in 2005 that murder was the leading cause of job-related death among journalists, and found the Philippines, Iraq, Colombia, Bangladesh and Russia to be among the most dangerous. Here are some suggestions to learn more about the dangers journalists face:

• ONLINE: Canadian Journalists for Free Expression (cjfe.org) is "committed to watching over regions of the world where journalists are assaulted, threatened, kidnapped and killed for reporting the news." The Committee to Protect Journalists (cpj.org) is an independent, nonprofit organization promoting press freedom worldwide by defending the rights of journalists to report the news without fear of reprisal.

• MOVIES: The films When the Sky Falls and Veronica Guerin — starring Cate Blanchett — both tell the story of the Irish crime reporter who was murdered while driving a few kilometers outside Dublin in 1996 by drug dealers. Another movie that deals with the dangers journalists face on the job is The Killing Fields (based on the experiences of three journalists in Cambodia during the Khmer Rouge regime).

• BOOKS: We Wish to Inform You That Tomorrow We Will Be Killed With Our Families: Stories from Rwanda, by The New Yorker writer Philip Gourevitch, chronicles the mass killings and strife during the Rwanda genocide. Bruce Chatwin's What Am I Doing Here includes a number of semi-fictional stories about his experiences as a writer — including a tense experience in Africa. The incident is also examined in Nicholas Shakespeare's biography of the Sunday Times journalist, Bruce Chatwin: A Biography.

Sedaris goes autobiographical

BRIAN COULTON
for Metro Canada

In the 32 years he's maintained a daily diary, David Sedaris estimates he's only missed 40 days.

"It's not that my life is interesting. It just became a compulsion after a while," said the 52-year-old American author, humourist and

NPR regular on the phone from his Albany, N.Y., hotel room. "Maybe tomorrow morning I'll realize that was a special of the day in the restaurant downstairs — wasn't really that important in the scheme of things."

Finding a kernel in even the most mundane of situations seems commonplace in Sedaris' writing. His latest collection of essays, When You Are Engulfed in Flames, contains autobiographical stories as apparently minute as keeping up with his fast-walking boyfriend Hugh, to the grand three-month trip he took to Tokyo to quit smoking.

Sedaris will hold a public book signing Friday, at Chapters (McLeod Trail/Chinook Centre), at 7 p.m.

Carradine death not suicide: Expert

REPORT A U.S. forensics expert has examined the remains of David Carradine and believes he didn't commit suicide, according to the late actor's family, CBCNewsOnline reports. Keith and Robert Carradine revealed the finding by noted forensic pathologist Michael Baden on Thursday.

Metro's 7th Heaven: Metro taps what's hot right now

1 David Alvarez

ACTOR This Montreal-born 15-year-old shared the best actor award for the musical Billy Elliot at the prestigious Tony Awards Sunday night. Only a handful of Canadians have achieved this feat before but that's not the most remarkable thing about Alvarez. The teen had never acted, sung or tap danced until he started training for the Elliot role, which just took him six weeks to master.

2 Heavy Metal

TREND Is good old-fashioned hair-and-leather rock ready for a comeback? Consider these: Metal legends Iron Maiden recently released their live CD/DVD Flight 666. Mock-metal legends Spinal Tap are dancing with the devil once again with new album Back From The Dead. And Canadian metal underdogs Anvil announced that they will be opening for AC/DC at some North American venues. Yup, the beast is alive, heads will bang.

3 Bitte Orca: The Dirty Projectors

ALBUM If you checked the current playlists of Bjork, David Byrne and Vampire Weekend, this Brooklyn quintet would probably be on non-stop replay mode.

Led by former Yale music student David Longstreth, the band's mix of punk, blues and art-rock zaniness have garnered them rave reviews in music mags.

4 The Sims 3

GAME Fake people are bringing in some real cash for gaming publisher Electronic Arts Inc. The latest instalment of the popular PC game sold 1.4 million copies in its first week, making it the bestselling PC game launch in EA's history. Last year, the original Sims became the top-selling computer game ever.

5 Adam Lambert

CELEB Don't say you didn't hear the closet creaking. The mascara-laden America's Idol runner-up has revealed to Rolling Stone that he's gay. Although he never denied his sexuality (photos of him kissing his ex-boyfriend appeared in March), this is the first time he has been forthcoming.

6 iPhone

GADGET Everyone's favourite little toy got a brand new feature: Lower prices. Now you will only shell out $99 (instead of $199) for Apple's 8GB iPhone, and that's not all. Apple also announced a new model of the iPhone — the 3GS — that will sport a faster processor and sought-after features like an internal compass, a video camera and an improved photo camera.

The hearing is set for June 22, when it will be decided if there is enough evidence against Brown to go to trial.

'Uncooperative' Carrie stripped of crown

PUSHED OUT Learning she was stripped of her title, former Miss California USA Carrie Prejean says her opposition to gay marriage was responsible for her ouster, people.com reports.

"None of this would be happening right now if I just said, 'Yeah, gays should get married. You're right, Perez Hilton.'" Prejean, 22, told Access Hollywood's Billy Bush. After Bush informed Prejean live on his radio show that she'd been dethroned, she responded: "That's the first that I've heard of it, Billy."

During the pageant in April, judge Hilton asked Prejean her opinion of gay marriage. She replied that it is her belief marriage should be exclusively between a man and a woman — a response that sparked controversy, especially when her strong anti-gay-marriage activism was revealed, as were topless photos from her past and the news that she had undergone breast enhancements.

Still, last month Miss USA co-owner Donald Trump announced Prejean could keep her crown. That changed Wednesday. "To me she was the sweetest thing. Everyone else, she treated like s—," Trump told TMZ about Prejean.

The beauty queen wasn't making good on her royal duties, said officials. She was fired, Miss California USA executive director Keith Lewis said in a statement. "Based solely on contract violations including Ms. Prejean's unwillingness to make appearances on behalf of the Miss California USA Organization."

Disputing that claim, Prejean told Bush: "I've tried to reach out to them, and I've done several appearances and I'm going to be presenting at the Special Olympics this weekend as an honorary guest. I mean, I've been co-operating with them. I don't see why this is happening."

Madonna and Jesus at odds

NOT ON THE SAME PAGE Madonna is to meet her 22-year-old boyfriend's parents, femalefirst.co.uk reports. The 50-year-old singer wants to take her relationship with model Jesus Luz to the next level and is planning to fly to Brazil to get to know his family.

A friend of the pop star told In Touch Weekly: "Madonna is getting serious, so that's why she wants to meet his family. She has been growing closer to Jesus every day. The big age difference doesn't mean a thing to her."

But Luz seems far less committed. In a recent interview on Brazilian TV, he said: "Madonna is a friend who has entered my life. I don't have plans of marrying her. I can't say if she is the girl of my life. She is a marvellous and nice person."

How many cars does it take for Beyoncé to cross the road?

LAZY In town on tour, Beyoncé Knowles took a 14-metre car ride from her Mandarin Oriental Hotel in London to the Harvey Nichols department store located opposite, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The singer reportedly demanded the two chauffeur-driven vehicles containing her team and bodyguards, trailed by paparazzi, because she didn't want to walk in her high heels. After being escorted around the store for just 20 minutes, she took her car back to her hotel.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Italian Meatballs in Tomato Sauce

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 1/2 tsp (7 ml) olive oil
- 2 garlic cloves, finely chopped
- 2 celery stalks, finely chopped
- 8 oz (250 g) lean ground beef
- 8 oz (250 g) lean ground pork
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) fresh bread crumbs
- 1 egg white
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) dried oregano
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) dried basil
- 1 can crushed tomatoes
- 2 onions, finely chopped
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) tomato paste
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) chopped parsley
- 1/8 tsp (0.5 ml) black pepper

METHOD:

1. Preheat oven to 350°F (180°C). In small frying pan, heat oil over moderate heat. Add garlic and celery and sauté until softened and lightly browned, 5 minutes. Remove from heat and let cool slightly.
2. In bowl, combine ground beef, ground pork, bread crumbs, egg white, oregano and basil. Stir in

- celery mixture until just combined.
3. Using your hands, shape mixture into 16 meatballs about 1 1/2 in (3.5 cm) across.
4. Spray rack with vegetable oil cooking spray. Place meatballs on rack over baking tray, and bake until well browned on all sides, 10 to 15 minutes, turning occasionally. Transfer to plate and reserve. Meanwhile, in large nonstick frying pan over moderate heat, combine tomatoes, onions and tomato paste and bring to boil. Cover and simmer mixture until slightly thickened, about 12 minutes.
5. Return meatballs to frying pan. Cover and cook until cooked through, 20 minutes. Stir parsley into tomato sauce and season with black pepper.
